DO DIRECTORS DIRECT?

HOW THE NORTHERN PACIFIC WAS MANAGED.

WITNESSES WHO HAD CONFIDENCE IN STATE-MENTS OF OTHERS-MR. VILLARD'S NAME

COMING MORE FREELY INTO THE TES-TIMONY-THE ROCKY FORK ROAD

AND THE CHICAGO TERMI-

The hearing in the Northern Pacific Railroad Investigation was resumed before Alfred L. Cary, master in chancery, yesterday, and some important witnesses were on the stand. The object of the examination was to demonstrate that the Board of Directors of the Northern Pacific simply followed the suggestions of Henry Villard in most of the transactions which are now under review, and that the profits arising out of the various deals were absorbed by the original Wisconsin Central syndicate. The prosecution sought to show that the traffic department of the Northern Pacific was influential in persuading directors to approve some of the schemes which were carried out, while the financial operations were completed by Henry Villard, Charles L. Colby, Edwin H. Abbot and Col-

The first witness yesterday was William Nelson Cromwell, attorney for the receivers. The fact was developed that Mr. Cromwell was a director at one time in the Rocky Fork and Cooke City Railroad ompany, but did not own any stock. He was acting in the main for the owners of the road, Messrs. Hauser and Platt. He was interested, he said, as an attorney in the formation of the Rocky Fork Coal Trust, of which Henry Villard was trustee. Mr. Cromwell said that the contract between the Rocky Fork and Mr. Hauser was that he should build the road and receive the entire capital stock of $2,000,000. Then Mr. Cromwell was asked about the negotiations for the purchase of the Rocky Fork road by the Northern Pacific. A letter from Samuel T. Hauser to C. A. Spofford, for years the private secretary of Mr. Villard, in which Mr. Hauer ordered that all the capital stock of the company be turned over to Mr. Villard was shown to m. Mr. Cromwell said that he had never seen the letter before, and he did not know how long the Rocky Fork road had been completed before it was sold to the Northern Pacific. The witness said that he represented the selling party in the "deal" between the Rocky Fork and the Northern Pacific, and he was not in any way connected with the Northern Pacific.

"Then, in making the sale, you followed the instructions of Mr. Villard?" was asked. "I followed the instructions of the Rocky Fork Trust."

Mr. Cromwell made a long statement in explana-tion of the payments of money to David S. Wess and Charles W. Boutell when these men resigned from the Chicago and Northern Pacific and the Chi cago and Calumet roads. He said that it was absolutely necessary for the receivers to get control of those two roads, in order to protect the large interests of the Northern Pacific in Cinciago, and that the resignation of Messre. Boutell and Wegg were secured in pursuance of that policy. Mr. Cromwell said that the payments were far less than might legally and properly have been exacted. William Lamman Bull, of Edward Sweet & Co., a former president of the Stock Exchange and a former director in the Northern Pacific Railroad, was the first witness. He testified that the request for the acquisition of the Chicago terminals came from the operating department of the Northern Pacific. He had talked with Thomas F. Oakes, the president of the Northern Pacific, and with Mr. Villard, and both men were in favor of the lease. The witness did not know that Messre. Coby, Abbot and Hoyt were largely interested in the Wisconsin Central, the company through which the Chicago terminal deal was carried out, but he supcago and Calumet roads. He said that it was ab-question as to whom the terminal properties are longed. He did not understand that the Oregon and Transcontinental was the real owner of the terminal properties, and he presumed that that company acted merely as an intermediary. Mr. Bell said that the matter of purchasing the terminal swas that the matter of purchasing the terminals was referred to the Finance Committee of the Northern Pacific, which completed the transaction. The witness said that the reason why a lease was substituted for the traffic contract with the Wissonsin Central was because it would enable the Northern Pacific to handle the business to better advantage. President Oakes had advised the lease.

Taking up the Rocky Fork "deal," Mr. Bull, in reply to questions said that he was interested in the Rocky Fork Coal Trust to the extent of $8,750, which was the value of 250 certificates. He went into the trust at the request of Mr. Villard, who urged the scheme as a good one for the Northern Pacific. The acquisition of the Northern Pacific and Manitobs road was then brought forward by the attorney for the complainant, and Mr. Bull testified that he understood that the road was a valuable feeder to the Northern Pacific. He got this knowledge from conferences with Messrs, Oakes, Colby and Villard; possibly with other directors.

The witness was then cross-examined by Colonel

Mr. Beaman had said that he had examined the property and found it to be fully worth the price asked for it.

George S. Baxter, the treasurer of the Northern Pacific Company, was recalled. He was examined relative to the amounts paid for the Chicago terminais, and to whom the properties in the sense that a man owned his house. They were taken up and carried by the company in order to turn them over to a new corporation. To aid the Oergon and Transcontinental Company did not own the properties in the sense that a man owned his house. They were taken up and carried by the company in order to turn them over to a new corporation. To aid the Oergon and Transcontinental in this undertaking, the witness said in substance that the Northern Pacific had loaned a sufficient amount of money to the Wisconsin Central, the latter in turn handing the money over to the Oregon and Transcontinental. He was asked if he did not think $406,06 was a rather large commission to pay the Oregon and Transcontinental for this work—the mere signing of notes. He said in reply that he thought it was not excessive. The work done by the Oregon and Transcontinental amounted to more than signing notes. It had to carry on the negotiations, to buy stock, bonds, etc.

"It acted merely as an intermediary? Why expend a half-million for work that you could have done in your own office?"

The witness said that he did not think the work could have been done by the Northern Pacific; that the deal was too large.
"But you were not consulted as to whether the treasurer's office would be able to do the work?"

"No. I was not."

Mr. Pettit called on the counsel for the receivers for the contracts between the Northern Pacific and the Rocky Fork coal trust relative to the supply of coal.

Mr. McNaught said he would produce them, and coal.

Mr. McNaught said he would produce them, and that he would show by them also that the Northern Pacific saved $1,000 a day on the contracts.

The hearing will be resumed to-day at 10 a. m., but will probably be brief, owing to the half-holiday.

RECEIVERS FILE AN AMENDED BILL. Hartford, Conn., May 18.-In the United States Circuit Court this afternoon Thomas C. Platt and Marsden J. Perry, receivers of the New-York and New-England, filed an amended bill of complaint against the New-York, New-Haven and Hartford for unjust discrimination against their road. The bill is returnable July 3.

TO DECIDE WHO IS MAYOR.

AN INTERESTING NEW-JERSEY ELECTION CASE

TO COME UP BEFORE JUDGE DIXON TO-DAY. If Judge Jonathan Dixon, who will hold court to-day in Hackensack, N. J., allows the securely sealed bailot-box, which has reposed for several weeks in Township Clerk Taylor's house, to be opened, and the votes therein to be counted, few people doubt that Theodore G. Hoster, Democrat, will be relieved from the necessity of acting as the first Mayor of East Rutherford, N. J., and that William McKenzle, Republican, will take the office, Mr. McKenzle and John F. Randolph, Republican contestant for Councilman, will be represented by Mayor Luther Shafer, of Rutherford, as counsel, while Mr. Hoster and Theodore Wood, Democrat, ting as Councilman, will leave their case in the hands of Captain Ely, of Rutherford. To the credit of the latter and his clients, it must be said that they agreed to facilitate the proceedings.

The case is one of the most peculiar election tangles in the history of Bergen County. Boiling Springs In the history of Bergen County, Bolling Springs Township in March voted to become the borough of East Rutherford. William McKenzle and Theodore Hoster, both prominent borough advocates, were candidates for the nomination of Mayor at a citizens' primary. Hoster won, and the Republicans, believing that faith had been broken with them, promptly held a primary and named a Mayor and six Republican candidates for Councilmen. This ticket swept the borough—at least, so thought the newspaper men and others present when the votes were counted, but the election board declared Hoster and Wood elected over McKenzle and Randolph, and, brushing aside protests, signed an election certificate to that effect. Soon afterward members of the board discovered and deplored their error, but Hoster was sworn in as Mayor on the day following the election, and proceeded to organize the Council in spite of a formal protest from McKenzle. The five Republican Councilmen laid Hoster's message on the table and would only agree to transact absolutely necessary business, and, several weeks ago, adjourned with the understanding that no further meetings would be held until the Court had decided who were elected. Hoster and Wood, through their counsel, agreed to facilitate matters, and Judge Dixon decided to hear the case to-day. The election as a whole showed a striking increase in Republican majorities, and the new borough begins its life with a government more thoroughly Republican than Boiling Springs Township ever had.

AFFAIRS IN BROOKLYN.

A MYSTERIOUS MAN IN THE ORGAN. OTHER PEOPLE WHO BELIEVE THAT THE FIRE IN THE TABERNACLE WAS OF the man because he was alone and had come out of the rear door.

INCENDIARY ORIGIN. More witnesses have been found who saw mys-erjous men in the organ and around the Brooklyn Tabernacle just before it was burned. Jesse Watson, a pupil in the Adelphi Academy, says that just before the service ended on Sunday morning he saw man carrying an oilcan come out of the rear door of the church. The man, so far as he could judge, was about forty years old, and had dark-brown hafr and a mustache. He wore a slate-colored suit and carried an overcoat with brown lining on his arm and the olican in the other hand. He had noticed the man because he was alone and had come out of the rear door.

Elder Wadham, of the Tabernacle, is positive that he saw the shadow of a man in the passageway leading back of the organ when Dr. Talmage was prenching. Mrs. John McLeod, of No. 18 Warren Flace, says she saw a man in the organ just before the service closed, and her sister, who was with het, also had seen him, and they had spoken of it. The man had on dark clothes.

Fire Commissioner Wurster expects to have his report on the fire ready to-day. James W. Birkett, one of the trustees, has denied to him that he ever aided in putting out a fire in the resistance-box of the motor of the organ.

NO RIGHT TO QUARANTINE PEOPLE. JUDGE GAYNOR DECIDES THAT A HEALTH COM-MISSIONER CANNOT IMPRISON PERSONS

WHO DECLINE TO BE VACCINATED-

SUITS FOR DAMAGES POSSIBLE. Judge Gaynor yesterday handed down an important decision in the matter of the right of a Health Commissioner to order the quarantine of persons who refuse to submit to compulsory vaccination The matter came up in regard to John H. Smith and Thomas Cummings, expressmen, in Greenpoint, who refused to be treated with vaccine virus, and secured a writ for a review of the proceedings under which they were arrested for going on with their cured a writ for a review of the proceedings under which they were arrested for going on with their business by Dr. Z. Taylor Emery. Judge Gaynor holds that Dr. Emery, Health Commissioner, exceeded his powers. In the course of the opinion Judge Gaynor says: "If the Commissioner had the power to imprison an individual for refusing to submit to vacchation, I see no reason why he could not also imprison one for refusing to swallow some dose. But the Legislature has conferred no such power upon him. If, indeed, it has the power to do the like. Chapter 651 of the Laws of 183 (Section 20 mpowers all health boards to require the isolation of all persons and things infected with or exposed to contagious or infectious disease. There is no claim that the petitioners are infected, or have been actually exposed to infection. But even if they were subjects for isolation by reason of infection or exposure thereto, they could only be detained while such, and not indefinitely until they yielded their bodies to vacchation. The same act directs health boards to provide vaccine virus, and at all times provide thorough and safe vacchation for all persons in need of the same. This falls far short of authorizing the imprisonment of those who refuse to be vaccinated. I need not discuss here the right to isolate or quarantine in times of pestilence. That right grows out of the overwhelming necessity of the case and has its limitations. It is not being exercised here, for the petitioners are not being held in Isolation as subjects of danger to the community, to be released when their bodies are no longer sources of infection, but they are being forcibly confined because they reluse to submit to vaccination and until they do submit thereto. The case will probably be appealed. On the basis of the opinion of Judge Gaynor there is ground for suits for damages by the persons, in all parts of the city, who were compelled to submit to vaccination.

OFFICERS OF THE ETHICAL ASSOCIATION. At the annual meeting of the Brooklyn Ethical Association, held at No. 197 South Oxford-st. on Thursday evening, the following officers and trustees of the association were unanimously elected for the ensuing year: President, Dr. Lewis G. James; first vice-president, Dr. Robert G. Eccies; second vice-president, Miss Ellen E. Kenyon; recording secretary, Z. Sidney Sampson, corresponding secretary, James A. Skilton, treasurer, Dr. Charles H. Shepard; librarian, Mrs. Jennie A. Whitcomb: trustees, the above-mentioned officers, together with Thomas Proctor and William Clinton Burling.

The reports of the treasurer and librarian showed that the receipts and expenditures had amounted to about $1,000, and that several hundred copies of the publications of the association had been solid during the year.

An interesting informal talk by Thomas Proctor on "Wild Birds in Captivity, and Some of Their Traits." Illustrated by fine living specimens of the English skylark, meadow-lark, hermit thrush, black-cap and other rare birds, followed the transaction of business. The witness was then cross-examined by Colonel McNaught, counsel for the receivers. In voting for the lease of the Chicago terminals, he said that he relied upon the opinions of his co-directors, the written reports of experts and the report of Mr. Beaman. The latter represented to the board that he had fully examined the properties and found them worth the price demanded for them. He said, further, that if he had any interest in the Chicago Great Western that fact did not affect his judgment in voting for the lease of the terminals. He did not remember that Mr. Villard had represented to the Northern Pacific directors that the Deutscher Bank, of Berlin, was the one principally interested to the directors that the same bank owned the Northern Pacific and Manitoba, and that though he (Mr. Villard) had formed the syndicate, he had no personal interest in it. He did not remember that Mr. Beaman had said that he had examined the property and found it to be fully worth the price asked for it.

There was evidence that there was no work for the appointees, and Judge Gaynor said that if the Common Council appointed officials for whom there was nothing to it was a case for indictment.

Robert Furey, the street-cleaning contractor, paid over to the District-Attorney yesterday the $2,590 for which he was responsible on the bonds of Kenneth F. He was on the same bond with James W. Birkett, ex-Senator, who has not yet "paid up." Sutherland's other bondsmen are James Feltman and Richard Given. The total amount forfeited to the county is $9,000.

METHODS OF PREVENTING CHOLERA.

A LECTURE BY DR. STEPHEN SMITH-PRECAU-

TIONARY RULES ADOPTED. An interesting lecture was given last evening at the Calvary Baptist Church by Dr. Stephen Smith, one of the delegates to the International Sanitary Convention recently held in Paris. Dr. Smith reconvention recently held in Paris. Dr. Smith reviewed the history of cholera and the different theories held as to its cause. He also mentioned briefly the work accomplished by the various conferences which have previously met, and then reverted to the one which has just closed. The history of cholera shows that it has always arisen in India and spread toward the West, it being carried by the great number of Mussulmans who make annual piligrimages from Hombay to Mecca, and there meet pilgrims from Western Asia and Europe, to whom they communicate the disease. The time taken in its spread diminishes at each fresh outbrack, on account of the increased facility for travel. The question before the recent conference was whether cholera could not be stopped before it left India, and whether some rules could not be framed by the conference and recommended to the different nations for adoption as an international code. This was advocated by the American representatives from the first, and, although at first opposed by a majority of the conference, such a code of rules was finally adopted, to be reported by the delegates to their respective governments.

These rules were in substance that every pilgrim to Mecca shall obtain a passport prior to his setting out certifying as to his freedom from any contagious disease; that he shall remain five days at the port of embarkation before taking the steamer, and that on the journey to and from Mecca the pilgrim shall undergo inspection and fumination.

These regulations would, in the opinion of the conference, confine the plague, in the event of another outbreak, to its place of origin. The conference also decided, Dr. Smith said, to recommend that the rame or similar rules be applied to immigration into the United States. viewed the history of cholera and the different

WHITE PLAINS.

County Judge Mills and several hundred persons in attendance at the County Court in White Plains yesterday were badly frightened at noon by shouts of fire from the Judge's room, adjoining the courtroom. A lawyer from Yonkers had thoughtlessly thrown away a match, after lighting a cigar, and then walked away. The match fell in a basket of waste-paper and a lively blaze was under way when it was discovered by the librarian. It was put out after a slight damage had been done. . . . The first anniversary celebration of the opening of the Presbyterian House of Rest, in Broadway, was observed yesterday. Miss Rachel Kennedy, of New-York, the patroness of the institution, was present and received the congratulations of many guests from New-York and elsewhere who came to examine the New-York and eisewhere who came to examine the institution. The house is intended as a home for convalencents who desire to spend several weeks in the country at moderate cost. There are twenty-five at the Rest now. The Rev. Dr. Macoubrey, of the White Plains Presbyterian Church, addressed the visitors after the reception. Haynal Vascellt was in all probability fatally stabbed in the throat by Zingara Nacolia at a shanty occupied by Italians on the farm of the Purdy Brothers, North-st., at midnight. Vascelit's wounds were dressed by Dr. Magness, who says he will die. Nacolia escaped.

CHARGES AGAINST E. B. HARPER.

MRS. NEWELL W. BLOSS DECLARES THAT HE RE PUSES TO GIVE UP A POLICY GIVEN AS SE-CURITY FOR A LOAN-THE DEFEND-ANT'S SIDE OF THE STORY.

Mrs. Emma C. Bloss, the divorced wife of Newell W. Bloss, who says her address is No. 21 Chambersst., the law office of her brother, Oliver Keane, made a charge in the Tombs Police Court yesterday against E. B. Harper, the president of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association. Mrs. Bloss held a $10,000 policy on the life of her bushand, who was for several years the second vice-president of the Mutual Reserve and whose father was the first president of the concern when it was organized in 1881. Newell W. Bloss is the president of the Na-tional Reserve Insurance Association, which was placed in the hands of a receiver a few days ago. On January 4 last Mrs. Bloss had to make a payment on a house which she owns in the country, and needed $100. She went, she says, to Mr. Harper, and asked him to advance that amount on the policy which she held. He agreed to do so, she alleges, but stipulated that the transaction should be made in the name of one of his secretaries, W. F. Kalupp. This was done, and a few days ago she went to Mr. Harper and also Mr. Kalupp and offered the $100 and the legal interest. Mr. Harper put her off, she alleges, with various pretexts, and finally flatly refused to surrender policy. This action on his part, she says, was due to the fact that when the Association first began business, it was decided to reserve a certain portion of the assessments until $1,000,000 was held. After that amount had been accumulated, it was agreed that all in excess should be divided pro rata among the original policy-holders. All but eight of the the original policy-holders. All but eight of the original policies are now non-existent, and although the reserve fund is now $3,000,000, no dividend has ever been declared. This policy, she declares, was one of these eight.

Through her brother, Mrs. Bloss a few days ago applied to Justice Taintor for a summons for Kalupp. This was granted, but although served, Kalupp paid no attention to it. On Thursday another summons was procured, but Kalupp could not be found. Yesterday Justice Martin issued a warrant and Kalupp was arrested. The examination was set

Mr. Harper was seen in his office in the new Mutual Reserve Building, at Duane-st, and Broadway, yesterday afternoon. He said: "The woman followed me one day, and seemed in such distress that I told Mr. Bernheim, the counsel of the company, that he might lend her 100. He was afraid of getting into trouble, and got Mr. Kalupp to do it. Mr. Kalupp is not my secretary; he is a cierk in the agents' department. I don't know whether he has been arrested or not. She never offered the money back."

RESULT OF A TRADE-MARK SUIT.

Worcestershire sauce, recently brought suit in the United States Circuit Court of Missouri against the Western Distilling Company, of St. Louis, for an alleged imitation of trademarks and labels. The suit was actively pressed, and the result is that a decree has been obtained enjoining the parties most active from any further use of Lea & Perrins's trademarks. The defendants are also held answerable to the plaintiffs for damages sustained.

We'd like to say that about everything in our stores; but it's too much to say even if we were sure of its being true. Enough to say is: we have got together the best overcoats, suits, shoes, hats, furnishings, that we know how to; and you may have your money back if you want it.

WE CLOSE THIS EVENING AT SEVEN.

New=York

is one of the States included in Part V of The Tribune edition of Indexed Atlas of the World, just ready. As illustrating the completeness and accuracy of this new and valuable work, we can say regarding the treatment of New-York:

The map of the State is 21x23 inches in size, the scale being thirteen miles to the inch, natural scale 1,823,680. It is printed in six colors and there are laid down on it, with absolute accuracy, the boundaries of sixty counties, the outlines of one hundred lakes, the courses of rivers with a united length of 2,200 miles, railways with a mileage of over 8,000 miles. By actual count the total number of names of towns, rivers, lake, etc., on this map is 4,462. All recent railroad construction is shown, including the Lehigh Valley extension to Buffalo, the Adirondack line of the New-York Central, the Middleser Valley line and numerous smaller extensions.

New-York City is shown by a double-page map, 21x28 inches in size. The new parks in the annexed district, the latest extensions of surface and elevated railroad lines, and all other changes to date, being correctly represented. An inset map shows the lower part of Manhattan Island on an enlarged scale. The map of Brooklyn also occupies a double page, showing the entire diy and much adjacent territory, including all of Fiatbush, on a large scale. The changes in names of streets and avenues, the extensions of surface and elevated railroads and the waterfalo, third in size of the cities of the Empire State, is shown by a full-page map, 14x21 inches in size.

State, is shown by a lattepass.

The index of New-York State names, locates, gives number of square miles and population of its sixty countles; names, locates and gives population of its 4,200 cities and postoffices, as reported by the census of 1890, names and locates its 54 rivers, 24 creeks, 114 lakes and ponds, 50 mountains and 19 islands. This ready reference index has never before been printed, and will prove a great time-saver in using these new maps.

There are 6,489 words of letter press about New-York. The historical part of the sketch begins with the voyages of Hudson and the first begins with the voyages of Hudson and the first begins with the voyages of the State down to chief events in the history of the State down to the later atting description of chief events in the history of the State down to the present date. An interesting description of the physical geography of the State serves as a preface to the account of its agricultural and mineral resources, with illustrated staistis. This is followed by data regarding its manu-facturing and commercial interests. The pub-lic schools and colleges, the railway systems, canals, charitable, penal and reformatory insti-tutions, public buildings, etc., are described, and statistics given showing the growth of pop-ulation.

These facts illustrate the thorough manner is which New-York is treated in this new work. All other political divisions of our own and other countries are given space in proportion to their importance as viewed from an American stand-point.
